Objetivo de esta actividad

Diferencias there was there were

El verbo 'haber' en inglés siempre resulta un poco complicado porque hay que tener en cuenta que el inglés tiene dos formas: el singular (there is) y el plural (there are). Si queremos usar este verbo en pasado, sucede lo mismo, tenemos dos formas: 'There was' y 'There were'.

La diferencia entre ambas formas es sencilla, dependiendo de si se trata de una sola cosa o de varias cosas que hay. Pero existe una cuestión más que hay que tener en cuenta. ¿Hablas de cosas contables o incontables?

There is y there are: repaso de cómo se utilizan

There is y there are se traducen como "hay" y se utilizan para decir que algo existe o introducir un nuevo tema en una conversación:

- There are two new students in our class. = hay dos estudiantes nuevos en nuestra clase
- There is a meeting today at seven. = hay una reunion hoy a las siete

- Las formas there is y there are se utilizan para hablar en presente. La peculiaridad de este tipo de oraciones es que el sujeto de la oración no es there, sino el complemento que le sigue. Por eso, debemos tener cuidado y asegurarnos de que coinciden en número. Utilizamos there is cuando el sujeto es singular y there are cuando el sujeto es plural:

- There _____ more than twenty people waiting to see Beyoncé
